

Elio Agostini (left), former publisher of The Mississauga News and vice-president of Inland Publishing Co. Limited, was honored at City Hall Monday night for his several years of dedication to the community. In making the presentation to Agostini and his wife Susan, Mayor Ron Searlé said his contributions to business, trade, charitable organizations and sport will be missed. "You are a leader not just in publishing but in all aspects of community endeavor," the mayor said. Agostini left Inland Publishing to assume a position with Thomson Newspapers. (Staff photo by Michael Stuparyk)
