

The Mississauga News — Wednesday, February 28, 1996 7

Famed conductor worked for CBC

Noted conductor and composer, Lucio Agostini, 84, died suddenly Friday at the Markham Stouffville Hospital.

A resident of Mississauga for many years, he was best known as the conductor of the CBC Orchestra in a long and distinguished musical career.

He is survived by children Lola, Elio and Lucio, three stepchildren, Richard, Greg, and Brent Heddleston, and five grandchildren. Elio Agostini is a former publisher of The Mississauga News as well as a founding member and past president of the Mississauga Board of Trade.