

^{Bradley, Ida Lynd}
Oldest resident dies at 105

A woman regarded as Mississauga's oldest resident has died.

Ida Lynd Bradley, who was born in a small lakeside cabin in Port Credit just over 105 years ago, died Friday afternoon. She had been a resident of Erin Mills Lodge for the past 12 years.

Her family is best known as founders of the first Methodist Church in the area, in fact, Lyndwood United Church is named after her brother. A memorial service was held in her honor at First United Church Tuesday. It is the church that Bradley was married in in 1910.
