

Brathwaite's achievements recognized

The top administrator for Peel's public school board has been honored for his accomplishments in education.

Harold Brathwaite, a Mississauga resident and director of education for the Peel Board of Education, was among 16 Canadians who received a Canadian Black Achievement Award.

The award honors the accomplishments, achievements and excellence that Brathwaite has incurred during his 26 years as an educator.

During his career, he has taught at the elementary, secondary and university levels.

Brathwaite came to the Peel Board of Education a year ago and has been the driving force behind the board's employment equity and anti-racism initiatives.

Brathwaite also has been awarded the Distinguished Alumnus Award from McMaster University. The Canadian Alliance of Black Educators honored him with the Outstanding Educator Award.
