Thirteen Mississauga citizens will receive prestigious Bicentennial awards for exemplary volunteer work in the community.

The Mississaugans — four women and nine men — are among 1,984 Ontario residents who will receive special gold-plated award medals at ceremonies across the province this fall.

During her trip to Canada this fall, Queen Elizabeth will be presented with a solid gold replica of the volunteers' Bicentennial medal. The official announcement of the award-winners will be made in August.

Nominated by city council to receive the award are: Rev. Maury Blair, Barbara Hammond, Gary Clipperton, Richard Clewes, Claude Racey, Alberto Cataudella, Elias (Louis) Velianou, A.J. Brands, Jeffery (Ed) Armstrong, Donna Howard, Carole Berry, Harry Hassal Sr., and Lucy Turnbull.

Bicentennial award nominee Alberto Cataudella, of Molly Ave., is founder and president of the Mississauga Canadian Italian Association.

The goal of the association is to assist in integrating diverse cultural and ethnic interests into the community, says Mayor Hazel McCallion, who nominated the self-employed businessman.

Cataudella has been active in the community since 1965 and was instrumental in establishing Saints Peter and Paul Parish and serves on the parish council, said the mayor.
