

Artist has library show

An artist whose interest has grown from illustrating rugged east-coast fishing villages to historical architecture in Ontario has work on display at Mississauga Valley Library through February. Deborah Crowle is a freelance artist, producing lithographed prints in limited editions. She is living on Martlen Cres. in Mississauga.

A graduate in technical illustration from Sheridan College, she received the Board Of Governors' Award for outstanding achievement, and an honorable mention in the 1975 Publications And Technical Art Exhibit at Ryerson Polytechnical Institute.

Selected by Canadian Tire Corporation to produce a limited-edition print of their 1931-37 headquarters, Crowle has also done art work for the Ontario Society for Crippled Children, the Canadian Commercial and Industrial Bank, Markborough Properties Ltd., Parkin Partnership and Whar-ton Industrial Developments Ltd.

Most of her work is marketed as lithographed prints in limited editions.

The Valley Library, 1275 Mississauga Valley Blvd., is located in the Community Centre at Central Pkwy., 276-6890.
