Although Brian Fleming is stepping down from his position as director of education for the Dufferin-Peel Roman Catholic Separate School Board, he is remaining in the field of education.

Fleming, who recently announced his retirement from the board effective June 30 of this year, will take up a position as education officer with the Ontario Ministry of Education come July.

Fleming will join the legislative branch of the ministry and be involved in developing legislation and policy affecting education in this province, as well as working on new program initiatives.

His office also serves as an information base for school boards seeking guidance on specific educational issues.

"I've spent many years dealing with the ministry while working for the board, now I will be reversing roles," he said.

Fleming said the post will enable him to pursue educational matters from a new perspective.
