Longtime Mississauga sports enthusiast Peter Harris is the new chairman of the Ontario Sports Centre's board of directors. His appointment was made public by Tourism and Recreation Minister Reuben Baetz.

A Toronto lawyer and Q.C., Harris has diversified his time in the development of gymnastics in the province through his work with the Mississauga and several Ontario Cups and Olympic trials.

Harris has also been involved with the Mississauga Sports Foundation and oldtimer hockey tournaments, as well as a director and registrar of the Mississauga Football League.

"Mr. Harris' strong leadership skills in volunteer sports and in the business community, together with his experience as a board member, make him the logical choice to lead the group," said Baetz.

Harris is husband of Ontario Gymnastics Federation past president Sue Harris.
