Thirteen Mississauga citizens will receive prestigious Bicentennial awards for exemplary volunteer work in the community.

The Mississaugans — four women and nine men — are among 1,984 Ontario residents who will receive special gold-plated award medals at ceremonies across the province this fall.

During her trip to Canada this fall, Queen Elizabeth will be presented with a solid gold replica of the volunteers' Bicentennial medal. The official announcement of the award-winners will be made in August.

Nominated by city council to receive the award are: Rev. Maury Blair, Barbara Hammond, Gary Clipperton, Richard Clewes, Claude Racey, Alberto Cataudella, Elias (Louis) Velianou, A.J. Brands, Jeffery (Ed) Armstrong, Donna Howard, Carole Berry, Harry Hassal Sr., and Lucy Turnbull.

Bicentennial award nominee Donna Howard is a founding member and past president of TEMPO — now renamed the Erin Mills Residents' Association.

As a member of TEMPO, Howard has helped organize a variety of children's programs in the community, including the annual Erin Mills picnic, says her nominator, Ward 8 councillor Steve Mahoney.

She is active in Erin Mills Church Campus, the Kings Masting School PTA, and chairs a committee raising money for the Erin Mills pool arena/ projects.

In 1983, the Roy Ivor Cres. resident was nominated Mississauga Citizen of the Year.
