A Mississauga financial services executive in the banking and insurance industries is the newest member of the Peel Police Services Board.

Louise Mitchell was appointed by the provincial government effective April 12 for a two-year term.

Mitchell is chair of the Women's Leadership Council for the United Way of Peel, a past board member of the Mississauga

Board of Trade, and past chair of Junior Achievement Canada.

She has been recognized with a Diamond Jubilee Medal and in 2014 was recognized as one of 50 Women of Influence in Canada's Life Insurance Industry.

Board chair Amrik Ahluwalia welcomed Mitchell to the board in the release: "Louise brings extensive experience in the community and the private sector to her new role as a police services board member. I am confident that Ms. Mitchell will be an effective and valuable board member."
