PARK ROYAL — In the series of Park Royal Community Association officers that are introduced to our readers, this week's column will introduce Mr. Doug Moir, area representative. Although he is serving his first term on the executive, Doug is no stranger to the community association, since he was co-chairman of the flower and garden competition for the past three years.

Doug and his wife moved to Park Royal in 1959, and soon became interested in the activities and projects of the association. He has been a willing and helpful hand in the work of the community and assisted the association on many occasions. In January of this year he was appointed to the board of directors to fill a vacancy and became an area representative for one of the 13 areas of Park Royal. Doug is responsible for one of these areas and keeps the residents informed of community news and is also a regular helper at bingo and Teen-Town.

Doug's interest in assisting others is further shown by his work as a Staff representative for the Employee's Association at the Workman's Compensation Board, and he assists in planning such functions as the golf tournament, dances and social functions.

Doug worked hard for last year's Field Day and is always interested in sports. He has played hardball, softball and basketball.

While the association now takes some of Doug's hobby time, gardening and traveling are among his other interests. He enjoys good jazz music and has a large collection of jazz records. A library of over 60 reels is an indication of his interest in taking home movies.

Doug is employed with the Workman's Compensation Board at their head office on Harbour st., and is a Supervisor of the I.B.M. Unit Record Equipment in the machine accounting division. He has been with the W.C.B. for the past 12 years.

Doug and his wife Ruth, and two children, Danny 3 and Wendy 1, live at 1323 Cavey cres., in Park Royal.
