

<sup>new entry</sup> New cartoonist <sup>Feb. 20-85 MN</sup> brings his family

Starting today, The Mississauga News will feature the wit and wisdom of our new editorial cartoonist, Steve Nease.

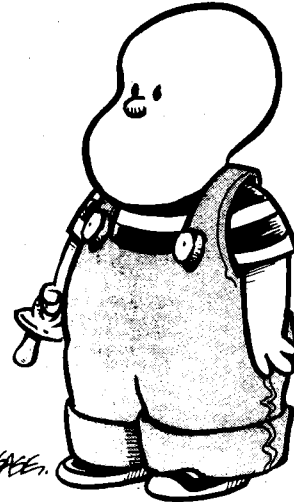

As an added bonus, Nease will contribute his comic strip "Pud" on a weekly basis.

Nease is the art director of The Oakville Beaver, a sister paper of The Mississauga News. His work has won him first-place honors in both the Canadian Community Newspaper Association and the Ontario Community Newspaper Association's Best Editorial Cartoon category.

"Pud," named after Nease's 1½-year-old son, Benjamin, looks at family life from dad's point of view. It will feature Nease himself, his wife Dian, their children Ben (Pud) and Robert, 5, and the family dog, Henry.

Nease says ideas for the comic strip, which premiered last December in The Beaver, come naturally. "One day it occurred to me I had so many ideas and a natural cast of characters," he said.
