Ronald E. Sanderson, past president of the Mississauga and Ontario Real Estate Boards, died Friday at the age of 71.

Sanderson was one of the founders of the giant real estate firm now known as Royal LePage Capital Properties Services Ltd.

He helped found A.E. LePage Real Estate Services following World War II, where he served as a Chief Petty Officer in the Royal Canadian Navy.

Sanderson is survived by his wife, Jeanette, a daughter, Wendy, a son Peter, two stepsons, Alan and Kevin Whitten, and a sister, Jean Austin.
