Mississauga builder and developer Harold Shipp, 56, is in stable condition at Mississauga Hospital, after surgery Friday for a massive ulcer, said his son Gordon, 25.

Shipp said the surgeons "hopefully" corrected the ailment his father found out about two weeks before his operation.

"He (the elder Shipp) is in excellent spirits and thankful everything went well. He's looking forward to getting back into the swing of things," Shipp said.

Shipp faces at least another week in hospital and a three-week convalescence period at home before he returns to his duties as chairman of the board and chief executive officer at Shipp Corporation.

"The family greatly appreciates all the support through flowers and telephone calls Harold has received," said Gordon.
